Hon. A. W. McCune Says Press Dispatches Have Nothing to Do With His Company-Railroad Notes.

Another Los Angeles road telegram ame by Associated Press yesterday,

Los Angeles, Sept. 22.—Mr. Woltmen, a representative of Kessler & Co., the New York bankers, is in this city, and corroborates the report that his firm has organized a company to build a railway from Salt Lake to this city. He says:

Some of our men will leave on Saturday for Salt Lake, and as soon as they can organize their corps, a prac-tical survey of the entire route will be made. We estimate that the road can be completed in a couple of years. Then the trip can be made from Los Angeles to Salt Lake in a day and a half, whereas it now takes nearly three days."

Mr. A. W. McCune, president of the Utah & Pacific, said yesterday this firm anything, it was in the interest of the other end of the line. The Salt Lake men interested in the building, and the men from the outside have placed their own money, and no firm of bankers is feating anything for them. fleating anything for them.

One member of the Henderson company, at least, leaves Salt Lake this morning in a very satisfied frame of mind. This is Mr. Russell Bassett, well known as the plaintiff in the celebrated case of Bassett vs. McGarvie. Everyone remembers that Mr. Bassett was one of the members of the stock commany selected by Mr. McGarvie in New York, that after a few weeks trial he was laid off with the others of the company, that he sued Mr. McGarvie for 330, that that gentleman set up a pien of incompetency, and that Judge Sommers was so little impressed by the pien that he gave Mr. Bassett's lawyer, John M. Zane, a judgment for the full amount asked for, Mr. McGarvie appealed, and in a moment of trostfulness, Messrs, Mulvey and Detrman went on his appeal bond. In course of time Mr. McGarvie migrated from Salt Lake, but Mr. Zane kept on pushing the case, and yesterday it was brought to a climax. Mr. Bassett being in the city, Mr. Mulvey salaed the occasion to propose a compromise, and the amount named being satisfactory, Mr. Bassett promptly accepted it, and the suit was dismissed. He observed to a Herald representative as he emerged from his lawyer's office that the money result was nothing at all to him, but the winning of a case in which a principle was at stake was everything.

The board of education last evening considered a large volume of business school work. In the absence of President Colton, who has gone east, Vice President Newman presided.

One of the important matters recomnended by the committee on teachers and school work was that the State Kindergarten association be given the free use of a class room in the Webster school building. The proposition was opposed by Mr. Moyle, because, mainly, the association charged pupils an en-trance fee of $1, and the institution was, therefore, not free. Mr. Nelden championed the committee's recom-mendation and pointed to the fact that the kindergarten work was really a part of the public free school system, Finally it was voted to defer action in the premises until the next meeting of
